

Author: Roberta "Rifke" Feinstein

This is a book for children from intercultural families who celebrate both Passover and Easter. It is a book created to make children feel comfortable with two cultures in their home. The illustrations are large and designed to capture the attention of young children. The words are simple to understand. There is a glossary of the Yiddish terms that are used in the book.

Just published, this book has already been purchased by a Jewish museum and by many parents and grandparents of children in intercultural homes.

Roberta "Rifke" Feinstein was born in New York City and attended both Yiddish cultural shules as well as English schools and colleges. Roberta was the Executive Director of the Congress of Secular Jewish Organizations (CSJO) for 22 years. She is the mother of three sons, who have raised their own children in intercultural homes.
